

Driving adoption in ERP transformation

Enabling your people to drive change in Oracle

How do we truly drive transformation in our organisation? It's about people.

At Grant Thornton, we understand transformation through the lens of our five drivers framework.

Transformation is not just about technology, it is about delivering change to people within organisations, and without clear enablement of the people engaged by a transformation, success will be limited.

Grant Thornton helps organisations bridge the gap between technology delivery and real-world business adoption. Our approach brings together enablement, change management, and behavioural adoption techniques to ensure your teams embrace new ways of working to deliver lasting value.

Working with Oracle, we deliver this through Oracle's Guided Learning platform, a leading Digital Adoption Platform ready to drive success for your organisation.

Delivering success

Potential results:

- Increased productivity
- Retention of key talent
- Inclusive working practices
- Adopters of change
- High performance
- Increased morale
- Increased profitability
- Greater employee engagement

What is Oracle Guided Learning?

Oracle Guided Learning (OGL) is Oracle's Digital Adoption Platform, providing on system guides, configured to your organisation, helping direct users to the correct process.

Driving client success

With global logistics provider GXO, Grant Thornton delivered an OGL enabled change and adoption workstream, with 99% uptake in training processes from end users against plan.

This model supported GXO in going live on time and on budget, for both site based and remote colleagues.

Use cases and user stories

Grant Thornton have developed use cases and user stories for core finance and purchasing processes in Oracle ERP Cloud, and we're continuing to develop accelerated OGL flows for clients as use of the platform grows.
